Analysis prepared by Equity Analyst Efraim Levy on Apr 20, 2018 12:18 PM, when the stock traded at $23.66.

Highlights

- We expect 2018 revenues to rise about 7.5% on aggregate higher U.S., European, Japanese, and Korean mirror sales. We expect revenues to advance on greater penetration, even as U.S. and European production should be flat, along with a Japan and Korea production decline. The company revenues are likely to outpace global industry production volume, helped by increased content per vehicle and greater market share in the Asian markets. Fire protection revenues likely will not change meaningfully. We expect growth in dimmable airplane windows, albeit from a tiny but expanding base, as production of the Boeing 787 Dreamliner increases. We expect 7% to 8% revenue growth in 2019.
- We project narrower operating margins for 2018, as price reductions and unfavorable currency outweigh cost cutting and operating leverage. Contributions to other income from realized equity gains should rise this year.
- We see GNTX as a beneficiary of federal tax rate policy changes. We expect EPS will increase to $1.67 in 2018 and $1.81 in 2019, up from $1.41 in 2017, which included $0.13 of benefit from the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017. GNTX's strategy for growth includes adding features to interior and exterior auto mirrors.

Investment Rationale/Risk

- GNTX recently traded at a premium to the peer average based on 2018 EPS estimates, but at a discount to the S&P MidCap 400 Index. We think a premium to peers is warranted by GNTX's historical ability to generate more consistent growth than peers, and also given the U.S. Department of Transportation's rules regarding expanding the required field of view to detect objects directly behind vehicles.
- Risks to our recommendation and target price include lower production or demand for vehicles, especially those with relatively high GNTX product content, lower average selling prices, and a weaker-than-expected mix or penetration of new products. Another risk is a move by customers away from mirror-based displays to alternate in-vehicle display locations.
- Our 12-month target price of $26 is derived by applying a multiple of 15.6X our 2018 estimate, below GNTX's five-year average forward P/E. We see slowing near-term growth, but we see trends supportive of increased Gentex content. We expect EPS accretion from the HomeLink acquisition.

Analyst's Risk Assessment

Our risk assessment reflects the cyclical nature of GNTX's markets and its dependence on certain customers, offset by the absence of long-term debt on its balance sheet.

Gentex Corporation

Business Summary April 20, 2018

CORPORATE OVERVIEW. Gentex Corp. develops, manufactures, and markets proprietary electro-optic products, including electrochromic, automatic-dimming automotive rearview mirrors, and a line of fire protection products primarily for the commercial building industry. With an approximately 93% market share in auto-dimming rearview mirrors in 2017, up from 92% in 2016, 91% in 2015, 90% in 2014 and 88% in 2013, GNTX is viewed to be the dominant supplier to the automotive industry.

The company ships interior mirrors as well as flat, convex and aspheric sub-assemblies for exterior use. In 2017, it sold 39.3 million mirrors, up 9% from 2016.

GNTX's line of fire protection products consists of approximately 55 different models of smoke alarms and smoke detectors, and more than 100 different models of signaling appliances.

The company and PPG Aerospace work together to provide variably dimmable windows for the passenger compartment of Boeing's 787 Dreamliner aircraft.

Regionally, North America accounted for 31% of auto-dimming mirror shipment units in 2017. Europe (mostly Germany) accounted for 46% and Asia-Pacific accounted for the balance.

CORPORATE STRATEGY. The company seeks to expand revenues via new models, greater penetration of existing markets and adding exterior mirrors. It seeks to be first to market new technologies and improve its manufacturing capabilities.

We expect the company to expand in Europe and Asia and to add features for mirrors. We also see the company continuing to focus on research and development for new technologies.

In September 2013, Gentex acquired HomeLink from Johnson Controls [JCI] for $700 million. Gentex funded the transaction from cash on hand and by issuing debt.

MARKET PROFILE. We forecast higher global vehicle production in 2018, with production trends varying by country. U.S. new light vehicle production should decrease. We project higher production in Asia and we expect improved U.S. automotive replacement parts market demand.

POTENTIAL CATALYSTS. The Kids Transportation Safety Act of 2007 was signed into law in February 2008. The law revises federal standards to expand the field of view so that drivers can detect objects directly behind vehicles. We think the company, with its rear camera display [RCD] mirror, is a potential beneficiary of the Act, as it could require additional vehicle mirrors, sensors, or cameras. In December 2010, the U.S. Department of Transportation proposed rules regarding the required field of view to detect objects directly behind vehicles. Further updates to the Act have been repeatedly delayed, but a final rule was announced March 31, 2014. We think sales of Gentex's rear camera display mirrors would increase if new rules are enforced.

Proposed new legislation should help increase demand for rear camera display mirrors, but could also shift customers to competitors' display options.

With relatively little long-term debt, in our view, Gentex could use its free cash flow to repurchase common shares and/or increase its cash dividend.

Sub-Industry Outlook

Our fundamental outlook for the auto parts and equipment sub-industry for the next 12 months is positive, reflecting our expectations for plateauing demand, but a favorable mix in the U.S. and rising demand abroad, including China. We think European production will improve again in 2018, while the weaker dollar should help reported results in U.S. dollars. We also think profits should benefit from international vehicle production.

We estimate 2018 U.S. light vehicle sales will soften 1.9% to 16.8 million units, down for a second consecutive year from 2016's record volume. For 2018, we expect gains in most other regions, too. Rising prosperity in emerging markets, led by China, should drive global demand growth and European demand should rise, partly offset by declines in some emerging markets. We think higher global volume will help corporate profits and cash flows. Currency swings will impact companies' profitability. Positive factors we see in the U.S. include widely available access to consumer credit, high consumer confidence and employment, a strong stock market and relatively low and stable gas prices. The average vehicle is now about 11.5 years old, an industry record. A rebound in commodity prices could be a headwind for margins. The strong dollar should hurt those with exposure to sales denominated in weaker currencies.

We forecast higher global vehicle production in 2018, with production trends varying by country. U.S. new light vehicle production should decrease, but Europe's should rise. We project higher production in Asia, led by China, and we expect improved U.S. automotive replacement parts market demand. We expect global volume to rise in 2018.

Many auto parts suppliers are increasing their revenues generated outside the U.S. Emerging markets are becoming more attractive to parts manufacturers due to lower labor costs for manufacturing and engineering in addition to, or because of, growing demand in local and regional markets. Over time, we expect some domestic parts suppliers to increase penetration of import brands, which are shifting more of their production to the U.S.

Year to date through April 6, 2018, the S&P Auto Parts & Equipment Index fell 2.1% compared to a 2.5% decrease for the S&P 1500 Index. In 2017, the S&P Auto Parts Equipment Index rose 30.1% compared to an 18.8% increase in the S&P 1500 Index.

12:11 pm ET... CFRA KEEPS BUY OPINION ON SHARES OF GENTEX CORPORATION [GNTX 23.66*]: Our 12-month target price of $26 is 15.6X our '18 EPS estimate of $1.67, on historical and peer P/E analysis. We raise our '18 EPS projection by $0.09 to reflect a further reduction in expected tax rates and share count. We increase '19's EPS forecast by $0.05 to $1.81. We see positive vehicle content trends aiding GNTX's growth rate in international markets. We also see technology upgrades serving an evolving automotive market. GNTX posts Q4 EPS of $0.40 vs. $0.33, in line with the consensus estimate and $0.01 above our view, despite 2.4% lower-than-expected revenues. The sales shortfall was largely attributable to a supplier production issue that hurt revenues by about 2%, but has since been remedied. Still, the company grew faster than the weaker-than-expected industry production in its key markets. We expect revenues to improve on new products and increased industry vehicle production as the year progresses. /Efraim Levy, CFA

This is 16.5X our '18 EPS estimate of $1.58 [raised by $0.24], on historical and peer P/E analysis. We set '19's EPS forecast at $1.76. Tax reform should lower the company's tax rate and we see favorable vehicle content trends aiding GNTX's growth rate in international markets. We also see technology upgrades serving a changing automotive market. Including tax reform benefits of $0.13, GNTX posts Q4 EPS of $0.46 vs. $0.31, above the $0.32 consensus estimate. Operating margin comparisons were hurt by temporary elevated Q4 '16 margins. /Efraim Levy, CFA

STARS

Since January 1, 1987, CFRA Equity and Fund Research Services, and its predecessor S&P Capital IQ Equity Research has ranked a universe of U.S. common stocks, ADRs (American Depositary Receipts), and ADSs (American Depositary Shares) based on a given equity's potential for future performance. Similarly, we have ranked Asian and European equities since June 30, 2002. Under proprietary STARS (Stock Appreciation Ranking System), equity analysts rank equities according to their individual forecast of an equity's future total return potential versus the expected total return of a relevant benchmark (e.g., a regional index [S&P Asia 50 Index, S&P Europe 350® Index or S&P 500® Index]), based on a 12-month time horizon. STARS was designed to meet the needs of investors looking to put their investment decisions in perspective. Data used to assist in determining the STARS ranking may be the result of the analyst's own models as well as internal proprietary models resulting from dynamic data inputs.

S&P Global Market Intelligence's Quality Ranking

[also known as S&P Capital IQ Earnings & Dividend Rankings] - Growth and stability of earnings and dividends are deemed key elements in establishing S&P Global Market Intelligence's earnings and dividend rankings for common stocks, which are designed to encapsulate the nature of this record in a single symbol. It should be noted, however, that the process also takes into consideration certain adjustments and modifications deemed desirable in establishing such rankings. The final score for each stock is measured against a scoring matrix determined by analysis of the scores of a large and representative sample of stocks. The range of scores in the array of this sample has been aligned with the following ladder of rankings:

A+	Highest	B	Below Average
A	High	B-	Lower
A-	Above Average	C	Lowest
B+	Average	D	In Reorganization
NR	Not Ranked

EPS Estimates

CFRA's earnings per share (EPS) estimates reflect analyst projections of future EPS from continuing operations, and generally exclude various items that are viewed as special, non-recurring, or extraordinary. Also, EPS estimates reflect either forecasts of equity analysts; or, the consensus (average) EPS estimate, which are independently compiled by S&P Global Market Intelligence, a data provider to CFRA. Among the items typically excluded from EPS estimates are asset sale gains; impairment, restructuring or merger-related charges; legal and insurance settlements; in process research and development expenses; gains or losses on the extinguishment of debt; the cumulative effect of accounting changes; and earnings related to operations that have been classified by the company as discontinued. The inclusion of some items, such as stock option expense and recurring types of other charges, may vary, and depend on such factors as industry practice, analyst judgment, and the extent to which some types of data is disclosed by companies.

12-Month Target Price

The equity analyst's projection of the market price a given security will command 12 months hence, based on a combination of intrinsic, relative, and private market valuation metrics, including Fair Value.

Qualitative Risk Assessment

Reflects an equity analyst's view of a given company's operational risk, or the risk of a firm's ability to continue as an ongoing concern. The Qualitative Risk Assessment is a relative ranking to the U.S. STARS universe, and should be reflective of risk factors related to a company's operations, as opposed to risk and volatility measures associated with share prices. For an ETF this reflects on a capitalization-weighted basis, the average qualitative risk assessment assigned to holdings of the fund.

Stocks are ranked in accordance with the following ranking methodologies:

STARS Stock Reports:

Qualitative STARS recommendations are determined and assigned by equity analysts. For reports containing STARS recommendations refer to the Glossary section of the report for detailed methodology and the definition of STARS rankings.

Quantitative Stock Reports:

Quantitative recommendations are determined by ranking a universe of common stocks based on 5 measures or model categories: Valuation, Quality, Growth, Street Sentiment, and Price Momentum. In the U.S., a sixth sub-category for Financial Health will also be displayed. Percentile scores are used to compare each company to all other companies in the same universe for each model category. The five (six) model category scores are then weighted and rolled up into a single percentile ranking for that company. For reports containing quantitative recommendations refer to the Glossary section of the report for detailed methodology and the definition of Quantitative rankings.

STARS Stock Reports and Quantitative Stock Reports:

The methodologies used in STARS Stock Reports and Quantitative Stock Reports (collectively, the "Research Reports") reflect different criteria, assumptions and analytical methods and may have differing recommendations. The methodologies and data used to generate the different types of Research Reports are believed by the author and distributor reasonable and appropriate. Generally, CFRA does not generate reports with different ranking methodologies for the same issuer. However, in the event that different methodologies or data are used on the analysis of an issuer, the methodologies may lead to different views or recommendations on the issuer, which may at times result in contradicting assessments of an issuer. CFRA reserves the right to alter, replace or vary models, methodologies or assumptions from time to time and without notice to clients.
